

Lounges to be Open Sundays Says Inter-Dormitory Council

The increasingly active Inter-Dormitory Council has passed two more regulations designed to improve the lot of the dormitory resident.

At the meeting of February 19, they decided to allow the dorms to remain open to visitors every Saturday and Sunday afternoon from two until five P. M.

Elton Lounge will be open during the same hours so that students may entertain their guests there. Cook Lounge will also be kept open and clean for visitors. During the football season, students will be allowed to entertain in their rooms from immediately after the game until 7:00 p.m.

These regulations will especially benefit the freshman who have no facilities for entertaining since they cannot join fraternities. It will be of the most help on big dance weekends. The Council will supervise these conveniences and rescind them if the dormitory residents do not cooperate.

Fellowships in Public Service Are Offered

Students interested in public service careers who receive their bachelor's degree next June are being offered an opportunity to apply for fellowships carrying stipends of $1,200 per year.

Beginning in June, 1952, fellows will serve an internship with a public agency such as the Tennessee Valley authority, a city manager's office, or a department of state government. Fellows will take graduate courses at three universities: the universities of Alabama, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

Completion of the twelve-month training period entitles fellows to a certificate in public administration. Fellows may be awarded a master's degree upon satisfactory completion of the master's degree requirements.

For eligibility requirements and other information students should write to: Educational director, Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, University of Alabama, University, Alabama. The deadline is March first.

Selective Service

Applications for the Selective Service College Qualification Test, to be administered here during April, are now available in Jarvis 1. The deadline for the mailing of applications is March 10.

Survey Finds New England Girls Less Receptive Than Others

Whether or not its because of the weather, New England girls have been found to be "colder" than their southern counterparts.

This was found in two separate surveys conducted by Dartmouth and the University of Pennsylvania among young girls. The pollers questioned the girls on petting, kissing, and other facets of dating.

No Petting

New England girls frown upon petting. 43 per cent consider petting immoral, and a very definite 83 per cent feel that it drags down a girl's reputation. 76 per cent do not like first-date kissing. The survey did not reveal, however, whether the girls in the majority or the minority attend most of the college weekends.

Jesters Reduce to Two Plays Per Year

The Jesters agreed at a meeting Monday evening to reduce their annual program to two performances per year.

Among the problems encountered in the previous system was the difficulty in obtaining women for the casts and the concentrated rehearsal schedules necessary for three successful performances.

A reduction in the points necessary to become eligible for election to the Senior Jesters is being arranged as a result of the decreased possibility of point accumulation caused by the reduced program.

Mr. George E. Nichols, III, director, announced that the play selected for the spring performance will probably be The Importance of Being Earnest by Oscar Wilde. A performance has been scheduled tentatively for the Senior Ball weekend.

To fill in the interim between fall performances and the beginning of the production of the spring play, plans have been begun for the readings of student-directed plays. Readings will probably last between one and two hours, and audiences will be admitted without charge.

A committee of Stephen Plum, Pat Keller, Samuel Ramsay, Pete Smith, and Raymond Parrott volunteered to read and select the plays. Ramsay, Keller, Smith, and Ray Leonard constitute a group interested in directing the readings. Among plays suggested are Death of a Salesman, The Sleep of Prisoners, The Tragedy of Dr. Faustus, and Winterset.

At a meeting of the Senior Jesters following the general meeting, Jim Mitchell '54 was elected assistant business manager of the Jesters.

Hall, Hulbert Defeat Lehigh for Debaters

On Saturday the Atheneum Society was host to debaters from Lehigh University.

A debate was held in the afternoon during which the national topic about wage and price control was discussed. The Trinity debaters, upholding the negative of the question, received the decision. Mr. Robert Vogel of the English Department was Judge. The Trinity team was composed of Dick Hall and Ellerd Hulbert.

On Sunday afternoon, March 2, Trinity will be host to debaters from Williams College. The subject will concern the sending of an ambassador to the Vatican.

Petting

Looking at the Philadelphia area, the Daily Pennsylvanian finds that 56 per cent find kissing on the first date agreeable, while 59 per cent of the females in the city of "sisterly" love favor petting. 43 per cent of the Philly Fillies consider that petting enhances a girl's reputation. One girl at Centenary Junior College who will remain anonymous for obvious reasons, (Ed. Note: We have her phone number) concludes that kissing and petting are "natural occurrences."

Go South

In conjunction with these surveys, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad has announced increased trains to Philadelphia on weekends.

Connecticut Beta Elects Eight Seniors Into Phi Beta Kappa

Trinity to Present Three Bills to CISL

Composed of 18 colleges and universities in the state, the Connecticut Intercollegiate Student Legislature will convene at the state capitol on March 6, 7, 8.

The Trinity delegation will present the three bills for action.

Ellerd Hulbert will introduce a constitutional amendment concerning the limitation of the tenure of the governor of the state of Connecticut to two successive terms.

A resolution concerning an increase in salary for certain state police personnel will be introduced by representative Steve Goddick. Its purpose is, "to encourage a more rigid enforcement of Connecticut State Laws resulting from a more efficient public servant and to encourage more well-qualified men and women to enter the service of the state."

In an attempt to help curb the rising accident rate in the state, and to insure better driving conditions throughout the state, Duncan Stephenson will propose an account concerning the inspection of motor vehicles.

Frosh Prom Planned For IFC Weekend

To provide the freshmen with entertainment on the party weekend of the IFC Ball, March 22 and 23, a frosh committee under Chairmen Bob Sind and Tom Allocco have planned the first Freshman Prom Trinity has ever seen.

The dance is to be held in the Shangri-la Room of the Hotel Garde March 22 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Paul Landerman's six-piece orchestra will provide the music. Tickets to the dance, which will be limited to 100 couples, are $3.60 and will soon be available through campus students Lyn Farnham and Tom Allocco and day student Ron Kent.

The committee agreed that corsages would be optional. As the result of the work of a few industrious freshmen, the class of 1955 may well establish the Freshman Prom on the Trinity College Calendar.

Eight Students Play In Bridge Tourney

From a competitive bridge contest at Trinity, four teams were selected to compete in the national preliminaries which were held February 17. Those who played were Tom Asher, Martin Anderson, Bill Booth, Phil Truitt, John Parker, Ed Nahas, Stan Lee, and Doug Lee.

The preliminaries are being judged by a board in New York which sent a form with prepared hands on it to all participating schools. The board is basing its decisions according to the way the teams played the hands. All hands sent out were alike.

The judges divided the nation into eight zones. In the New England zone twenty-five schools participated. The two winning teams of each zone will meet in Chicago, April 25 and 26, all expenses paid, for the face-to-face finals.

The National Bridge Tournament is one of the few contests where college women and men compete on the same basis.

Lord's Table Discussed by Kelley Of Annhurst in Newman Club Talk

Rev. J. Ralph Kelley, professor at Annhurst College, spoke to the Newman Club, February 19, on the topic "The Christian at the Table of our Lord."

Father Kelley's first concern was with the notion of sacrifice. Elaborating the dictionary definition by taking examples from history, he showed that the spirit and act of sacrifice is necessary to the individual who recognizes God as his Creator. The meaning of sacrifice, according to Father Kelley, has to do with the offering of some form of life in order to recognize God's gift of life.

"The Mass"

From this general meaning of sacrifice, Father Kelley progressed to the singular aspect of the Christian sacrifice, the Catholic Mass. Here, says Father Kelley, one may find the supreme sacrifice, a divine sacrifice.

At a meeting of the Connecticut Beta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa eight seniors were elected, it was announced by Professor Blanchard Means yesterday.

The men elected are Benjamin C. Goodwin, Gregory A. Knapp, Douglas C. Lee, Joseph A. Morehead, Jr., Stewart A. Sprague, Kenneth D. Thomas, Richard P. Yeomans and Lawrence G. Barrett.

All of the seniors elected by the faculty members of the honor society had at least an 86 average for four years at college. They will be initiated next Wednesday.

Ben Goodwin, a native of Hartford, St. Paul's alumnus, is majoring in Economics.

Greg Knapp, a Geology major, comes from Bayonne, and graduated from Trinity School. He is a member of Alpha Chi Rho, the Glee Club, the tennis team, and the Chem Club.

Doug Lee, from New Rochelle and another Trinity School alumnus, is majoring in Physics. The present president of Tau Alpha, he is also on the track team. He was also elected to Sigma Pi Sigma, Physics honor society, and to the Student Senate treasurership.

Another New Yorker is Joe Morehead from Jamaica High. Majoring in English, he is also a member of Sigma Nu and has been active on the Tripod, the Review, and WRTC.

Stew Sprague is a native of Hartford and is now studying at R.P.I. under the five-year plan for Engineering students. While here, he was active in the Engineering Club and Sigma Pi Sigma.

Ken Thomas from Bridgeport recently returned after having served with the armed forces in Korea. He is a pre-theological student and a member of the Canterbury Club.

Dick Yeomans, an Economics major from Andover, graduated from Windham High. He is Managing Editor of the Tripod and is also active in the Camera Club and as baseball manager.

Larry Barrett, from New Britain, started as a Physics major and by taking extra courses finished in two and one-half years. He was a member of Sigma Pi Sigma and is now at Oak Ridge under a fellowship.

"The Communion"

Finally, Father Kelley dealt with the social aspect of communion. The STEPPING FORWARD . . .

Interfraternity Council has never been a clearly defined self at Trinity. Calling it a tool of the administration, houses themselves have derisively questioned its hazily-interpreted functions and activities. It is indeed open to question whether the fraternities have really felt a need for an Interfraternity Council apart from the fact that fashion has declared it necessary for all campuses to have one.

The fact is that the I.F.C. is the baby of the collective houses, and that it is up to the fraternities to encourage its growth.

The need for a cogent interfraternity governing body cannot be overemphasized. The absence of an I.F.C.—or a weak one—does not mean that the individual fraternities will enjoy greater freedoms. On the contrary, in any community there is always the obvious need for rules, and if the houses, through the I.F.C., neglect to make their own, the administration assumes the obligation—and justifiably.

Interfraternity Council has opened its eyes to the reality that it cannot continue to function as a step-child of the fraternities, and has acted upon a significant plan for reorganization of membership rules. The motion calls for the election of delegates from each house for one year, from May to May. It was also proposed that each fraternity elect two representatives, a senior and a junior, the latter becoming senior representative the following year.

Under the traditional provisions of membership, the I.F.C. has had nothing to say about the term of office of its member representatives, only to find that new delegates, in accordance with the election policies of the separate houses, amble into the council at different and most inappropriate times of the year, as if the I.F.C. agenda were discontinuous. By the time the Trinity term rolls around, one never knows whether a representative one week will be around for the next meeting.

The faults of this fragmented system are obvious. It is a wonder the I.F.C. has managed to get anything done with this staggered influx of new men in the midst of its attempted consideration of standing problems which run over from one week's meeting to the next.

The Tripod applauds the I.F.C. for this big step in the direction of making student government a sure-footed, alert being in Trinity affairs. It is hoped that the fraternities will support it.

Postscript to Brotherhood Week . . .

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make a second visit to the campus on March 13. When it last came to Trinity in October, students and faculty set a record for the Hartford area by giving 201 pints of blood in five hours. To break our own record and to beat Wesleyan, we will have to give 264 pints of blood.

Minors are reminded by Al Miller and John Bishop, who are in charge of the campaign, that they need their parent's permission to participate. Pledge sheets will be circulated this week.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the Tripod:

Last week's Tripod bore the news that the Senate had issued a seemingly constructive order to the Trinity Review stating that its "next issue must appear before March 25" and that "an attempt be made to increase its quality."

Whether the quality of the magazine has decreased in past years and whether it is worth the money appropriated it by the Senate must remain moot questions of personal judgment. I am sure that nothing the Senate can do will improve the craft of those who write the magazine, the students. The Senate however, without any positive indication of the student body's majority opinion, has seen fit to dictate business and artistic procedure to an admittedly struggling campus organization. The Senate would not, of course, attempt to tell the managers of, for instance, WRTC to change their schedules; the results of that group are far more tangible and gratifying to most of us. But the Senate has decided it would be well to have three evenly-spaced Reviews regardless of any possible motives on the part of the Review board to group the issues differently.

Essentially, the Senate is trying to uphold an unimportant, functionless tradition. The principle it violates in doing so is important: the Review should not be held to deadlines outside its own judgment, for it is not a professional periodical. If its existence is not worth our money, our governing body should vote to end its appropriation at the end of the year or whenever such decisions are usually made for all the activities on campus; that is, when the Review's results can be viewed as a whole, rather than threatening them during their efforts.

Yours truly,
Ogden Plumb, '52.

To the Editor of the Tripod:

We of Delta Kappa Epsilon are taking this opportunity to voice to you, and to the student body of Trinity, our indignation at the serious attack and loss of prestige we suffered in your feature article of February 13th. We cannot here dispute Dean Clarke's ultimatum concerning "Hell Week" however, we can and do resent the way in which our Fraternity was singled out and made an example.

In a competitive situation such as exists between fraternities on this campus, any such slur and misrepresentation creates irreparable bad taste and taintedness toward the cited fraternity.

In the first place, DKE is not the only house on campus with a somewhat rigorous initiation period. Using the term "barbaric" in a descriptive sense in relation to our hell week is merely the unfounded flamboyancy of your author. Contrary to belief, hell week at Delta Kappa Epsilon has many beneficial aspects and jeopardizes the physical existence of no one.

Surely no one can deny that more accidents occur in athletics, house parties or week-end trips than do during fraternity initiations. Yet, are there any proposals for the abolition of these? This, however, is not our complaint at the present time.

We feel that we have been singled out and made the goat of someone's unfounded and misinformed mind. Freedom of the press—yes, but defamation and slander, No!

There is little that can be done to repair this unhealthy situation but we feel that it is our right to express our sincere disapproval at the slur of the name of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Speaking of Freedom . . .
The Fetid Air
By Henry Eckford, II

When Abraham Lincoln said "Give me liberty or give me death," he was speaking for the large majority of the American people; in much the same way it may be said that the statement "Give me academic freedom or give me death," if anybody ever bothered to say it, speaks for the hundreds and hundreds of college students and educators in this country who are sick of sitting back while the forces of those who would take away our American rights gather at our borders in Canada and Mexico and await further orders from the Kremlin.

Academic freedom is as important to our way of living as booing the Dodgers and drinking sodas at the corner drugstore, and yet there are those among us who would deny us that right. If we are not on the lookout we may wake up some fine morning and not find our academic freedom over in the corner where it should be, and that won't be a happy morning, I guess!

There are signs of the times all around us; little white caps that forewarn us of the more disastrous waves that are to follow.

Twelve students were thrown out of Dartmouth for keeping girls in their room all night during the winter carnival, and although money has been raised to support the case of the now-famous "Dartmouth Twelve," no matter what course the college takes, (if indeed it takes any course at all), the blot on the American right to do things that are fun will stand forever on the escutcheon of the college in Hanover. There is more than one way to skin a cat, Dartmouth College, and the American people know it!

Last December 19, in a classroom at Cayuga Seminary, a small New England college in southern Utah, a professor of anthropology named Oscar P. Fieldmann, hinted that the problems of the American Indians were not over. A simple statement, you say? You should have heard some of the simple answers. The violent reactions to those few supposedly "innocent" remarks finally found their way to our nation's capital, which is in Washington. Our Secretary of State, Mr. Charles Dawes, heightened the issue by declaring that the Indians were indeed where they were by their own machinations, and although he didn't like it, he would

Tripod Finds Classics Scholar
To Be Shaving Cream Magnate

I have frequently noticed a well-dressed, distinguished gentleman carrying books down the walk and going to classes. A friend told me that he is John D. Williams, heir of the Williams Shaving Cream industry, and that he is enrolled here at Trinity to study classics. After wondering for some time how it feels to own tons of shaving cream and why anyone who does should return to college, I approached Mr. Williams in the library and asked permission to interview him.

To Mr. Williams, who has been brought up in the shaving cream industry, the life of the industrialist is no novelty. He explained how his family's business mushroomed from the small grocery store owned by his great-uncle. John Baker Williams, his great-uncle, was a very progressive and outspoken man, and was convinced that all men should be clean shaven. To advance his ideas, he sold shaving cream in his Danbury, Connecticut, grocery store. The world famous Williams Shaving Cream company grew from this humble beginning.

Mr. Williams said that since he first began to read the books in his father's library he has had a keen interest in history and that he has come here to study the classics and broaden his knowledge in that field.

When he graduated from Hartford High, Mr. Williams went to Yale as a history major. After his graduation from Yale, he became affiliated with the Hartford Archeological Society, and he is now its secretary.

Mr. Williams admitted that he prefers the personal attention given to Trinity classrooms to the uninterrupted lectures given at Yale. He contrasted Professor Davis' ancient history class to the ancient history course he had at Yale, and says that he finds our informal, conversational classes far more interesting.

With my curiosity satisfied about this anthropological industrialist, I left him to his classics and reluctantly turned to my Calculus assignment.

Liquor Ads Report Presented at Brown

The Brown University Campus Affairs Committee has approved a report which favors the reinstating of liquor advertising in the student publications of the Providence university.

The report stated that the outlawing by the administration of such advertising was merely paying lip service to something which alumni and parents are behind. They felt that there was no moral issue involved, since the effects of such liquor advertising would probably be negligible.

The Committee went on to state that they felt the University's principal responsibility in this case was not to alumni, parents, or conservative prep schools—but to the students of the college itself. They would leave it up to the students to decide whether or not their publications should carry any ads for alcohol.

Another disadvantage which accrues to the college under the present ban is the loss of approximately $1500 in advertising revenue which, the report said, could well be used to support the college's activities.

The opposition within the committee agreed in substance with the report that the issue is not a moral one, and that the administration is considering alumni, parents, and prep schools in the ad ban. They believe, then, that the administration should (Continued on page 6)

Plans Completed for Laundry Service in Cook Basement

Senate Committee to Study Other Colleges' Elections

As soon as the laundry room in Cook C can be equipped, Trinity students will have a more convenient and more economical laundry service. At the Monday night Senate meeting it was reported that plans have been completed for the installation of three washing machines, an extractor, and a drier.

An attendant will be on duty eight hours each day to supervise the operation of the Bendix equipment. The charge for nine pounds of laundry will be 55 cents. Shirts may be left and will be returned ironed at a price of 20 cents each. Within a month these new facilities should be available.

Also on the Senate's agenda was the subject of Senate elections. A committee was appointed to study election systems used in other colleges and to determine whether the Trinity system of nominations by the fraternities and clubs gives the most adequate representation of the seniors.

Hartford Society Sponsors Engineering Lectures Here

Professor Stephen Friedland of the University of Connecticut gave the first lecture of a series of three sponsored by the Hartford branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to an audience of 140 in the Chemistry Auditorium February 19.

In his talk he gave a simplified explanation of atomic energy. In the second lecture, given last night by Professor Constant, cyclotrons, radiation detecting instruments, and health safeguards against radiation were discussed. In the final lecture to be given next Tuesday Professor Goodman of M.I.T. will speak on "Nuclear Engineering."

Fencers Top Wesleyan, 14-13; Lose First to Stevens Tech

Last Wednesday, in Alumni Hall, Trinity's fencers beat Wesleyan for the first time in five years. The score was 14-13, sweet revenge for last year's Wesleyan victory by the same score.

In foil, Dick Ellison won three bouts, George Kramer took two, and John Mazzarella one. In saber, Flash Foster, Stan Avitable and Hal Bartlett each won one bout, and the two squads went into the epee matches tied at nine-all. The epee team came through with a 5-4 victory to clinch the meet, with Jerry Lehrfeld taking three bouts, and Ike Newell and Davy Fisher winning one each.

Loses to Stevens Tech

The following Saturday the squad journeyed to Stevens Tech, and in an anti-climatic contest suffered its first defeat of the season, 17-10. In foil, Dick Ellison lost his first bout of the season to Petrowski, although he won his other two, ending his streak at eleven straight. Kramer won two also, losing to DiMartini, and John Mazzarella won one.

Freshman Hoopsters Trim Union, 66-52; Freeman Tops Team in Scoring With 18

The Trinity frosh basketball team outclassed the Union College yearlings, 66 to 52, last Wednesday, at the Union Gym.

Taking advantage of a wide height edge, Trinity controlled the boards and put on pressure at the critical moments of the contest.

In the first period the Hilltoppers jumped off to a slim 12 to 9 lead which was increased at the half-way mark, as the Frosh, paced by Dave

"Swish" Roberts, moved into a 30 to 24 advantage.

The Bantams hit their stride in the third quarter, increasing their lead to 16 points at the end of this chapter. However, Union opened the fourth period with an all-court press and threatened to turn the game into a nip and tuck battle. But the Hilltoppers had too much of a lead, and although the Union-men fought gamely in the final period Trinity lost only two points from their third quarter lead.

The varsity trampled over two weak teams this week, setting a new school record as they walloped Union, 95-67, and easily beat Tufts, 69-49, in a Gorski benefit game.

The two centers, Bob Downs and Charley Wrinn, were the big boys in the scoring column against Union, totaling 39 points between them. Wrinn played the first half and split the cords for fifteen of his total 19 points. He hit on six for 13 from the floor and was perfect on 3 foul tries.

Downs Scores 20

Downs took over the pivot slot for the second half and outshone Wrinn's previous efforts. The six foot seven inch center outfaked his opponents and was in for most of his scores on lay-ups. He sank six out of twelve field goal attempts and 8 of 11 fouls.

In the early moments of the game Trinity was trailing 10-9, but they unloosed an unrelenting scoring punch that had the Union team groggy. The previous high score for the school was 87 points, scored last year in a win over Tufts.

Shooting Accuracy High

The Bantam accuracy was at its peak as the shooters netted 35 baskets in 76 attempts, an outstanding team record of 47%. The foul shooting was also improved with 25 for 35.

Glenn Kinns, top Union star, was held under 20 points for the first time in seven games; he led his team with 18 markers.

The Bantams scored their fifth straight victory of the campaign without much trouble over a freely-substituting Tufts five. Charlie Wrinn was high man with 16 points, followed closely by Bruno Chistolini's 15.

Steady Scoring

Trinity trailed for three minutes, until Charlie Mazurek sank his first field goal. The team went on to take a 13-10 first quarter lead, lengthening it steadily to 33-23 at the half, and 50-35 at the three-quarter marker.

The Sports Barrel

By Alan Kurland

The final blow has been struck. It happened last Friday, when the newspapers reported that the New England Basketball Tournament had been cancelled. Last week we said that nineteen colleges had boycotted the meet, and we also commented that "as things stand now, it looks as though this idea (the tournament) might die a slow but sure death."

We hope that the narrow-minded athletic directors who killed the idea realize that they have done a complete, if not a commendable, job. The official reason given for the cancellation was "lack of interest." Because of this a fine proposal has been ruined. The thought behind the New England meet was to create a feeling of unity among the colleges of the area. Last year a few schools went along with the tourney, and a number of good games were played. But this year there will be no tournament. As a matter of fact, there will probably never again be a New England Tournament.

The nineteen schools who vetoed the concept of a get-together have, either knowingly or unknowingly, destroyed their own chances of ever getting the section into the "big-time" basketball. They disliked the idea because it was small and comparatively insignificant. But in forcing the cancellation they have elected to keep New England in permanent obscurity.

Holy Cross is going to the National Invitational in New York. We congratulate the Crusaders and wish them a lot of luck. And we'll be cheering for them to win, because they'll be the only New England team to play in a major league tournament for a long time to come. To the other schools we can only offer our sympathy, because "they knoweth not what they do."

Something people have been hoping for, but not sure would happen, occurred last week up at Schenectady. Bob Downs, long heralded as Trinity's tall White Hope in basketball, came through with the best night he has ever had, and it was a pleasure to see.

Big Bob, playing only one half of the game, scored twenty points. Bob has had many critics lately, but he silenced them all with a tremendous showing. Also remarkable was the fact that Charlie Wrinn, who shared the center position with Downs, made nineteen points, a grand total of 39 points from one position.

Baseball Team Holds Battery Practice

The varsity baseball team opened practice February 19 when the batteries turned out. Coach Dan Jessee is well stocked with returning lettermen among the pitchers and catchers.

Hurlers returning from last year's team include seniors Dick McCrehan, Bill Morse and No-hit Fred Vogel. As soon as the basketball season is over, lanky Charley Wrinn will return to the mound.

Coming up from the freshman team is right-hander John Bloodgood to round out the staff as it assembled at the moment. Two more sophomores are expected to show up at the end of the varsity hoop season, last year's frosh stars Al Smith and Charlie Mazurek.

The catching position seems about sewed up with Bob O'Brien again behind the bat. Subbing for him is sophomore Odie Cresse.

Swimming Team Defeats Boston U., 45-30; Godfrey Hits New High Score in Diving

Toole Leads Team with Two Victories in 50 & 100 Yard Dashes; Fourth Win for Tankmen This Year

By Ted Oxholm

Before a good home crowd last Thursday, the Trinity swimmers scored 45 points to Boston University's 30, to win their fourth meet of the 1952 campaign. By winning the first seven events in succession, the Bantams had a triumph sewed up long before the end of the meet. Walt Toole led the Trinity team with two victories in as many starts.

The medley team of Jim Grant, Ray Parrott, and Chip Vaile won their event in a breeze in the time of 3:27.5 on the 300 yard course, and Tony Mason defeated Boston's Lou Brierly and Tom Sexton in the 220 freestyle.

Toole Takes 50-Yard Event

Toole scored his first win in the 50-yard dash over Gaughan and Piccioulo of BU in the fast time of 24.8 seconds. His second triumph was over teammate Mason and opponent Brierly in the 100-yard dash. That was a Trinity event all the way.

Bill Godfrey got in the swing of things and put on another fine diving exhibition. His winning accumulation of points came to 84.83 which is a new high for him this season. It was within 4 points of Jim Huck's diving record.

Grant, Parrott Win

Grant and Dick Butterworth, both of Trinity, took first and third places respectively in the backstroke. Tom Sexton, an all-around swimmer, came in second. Grant's winning time was 2:23.8. Parrott and George Brewer swept through the breaststroke together and arrived at the finish line with Parrott first. The time was fair at 2:32.9.

In the long haul of the 440 Tom Malley of Boston proved to be a faster distance man than Trin's Chip Vaile, as he swam the distance in 5 minutes and 28 seconds. Hugh Wallace of Boston placed third. Boston then won the final 400 yard relay.

THE LARGEMOUTH BASS

Always a sucker for attractive bait, our aquatic brother went off the deep end and got caught on the quick-trick cigarette hook! But he wormed his way out when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be tossed off reel lightly. Millions of smokers have found, too, there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

This didn't please the Secretary of the Interior, who was in charge of the Indians, but later it appeared that Mr. Dawes thought that everybody was talking about Indonesia, so he went over to the Secretary of the Interior, and they both chuckled over it a good deal, and then the two of them knocked off work a little early and went out to play a little handball, and the whole matter was dropped.

IWA Summer Center Gives Scholarships

Many scholarships are being offered to deserving students by the Institute of World Affairs for attendance at its Summer Educational Center.

The cost of the entire program, including room, board, and tuition, is $300, but part or all of this can be defrayed by the scholarships awarded to deserving candidates. The camp which is located in Salisbury, Connecticut, will run a program from July 10 until August 28.

The purpose of the camp is to group together student leaders from various countries and give them experience in international living, leadership, and international relations. The camp is open to Juniors, Seniors, and recent graduates in Political Science, International Relations, Economics, Law, History, and allied fields.
